and friends at home to the apparent confusion of subjects into which His Lordship has unwittingly fallen in one of his paragraphs. He has just punished prisoners for kidnapping and forcible detention of children, and then, referring to his utterances from the Bench in October last, he continues :---

I then laid bare the extent to which kidnapping and detaining children and the holding women in brothels and for immoral purposes and holding men and women slavery wristed. I also pointed to the ter thousand onses of slaves, bond menend bond women, as some persons raising a distinction without a difference profer to call them, existing in this Colony - a number which the bistorical and philosphical applograms for the system think far below the actua number. They enlarge on the extent as full excuse for the system. This Court has not yet since October, 1879, had the opportunity until these Sessions of dealing with any one of the evils denounced. After all that has been but forth on these subjects I have reconsidered what I said 27th of October last. I adhere to all I said to every proposition I supposated. If these evils are not hunted out and brought to justice, the responsibility rests on those whose daty it is to hant them out and to bring them before this tribunal. After what has been said in England, especially in Parliament, that responsibility is very perious. It is clear that such states of servitudes which are slaveries as exist in this Colony will not be permitted. People who have not carefully follow styled " anologiste for the system " were and statesmanlike policy as regards Domestic Servitude, but were lemiently disposed towards the kideapper and the procures. It may therefore be se well here to state that kidnapping and the vile brothel system of bondage have not largely commended themselves to the public opinion or to the administrators of this Colony at any period of its existence; and that, although Sir John Smale has not desmed it necessary to state the fact, the native as well as the European Communities are only too glad to see kidnapping severely punished. On comparing some of Sir John's carliest remarks from the Bench on Servitude with those which have followed, we have previously shown that His Lordship wisely modified the tone he at first adopted; and in view of this considerstion, his statement that he adhered to every word he had nttered may be looked at from differing points of view. Still, apart from the controversial element in the discussion—which was unquestionably called into existence by His Lordship's somewhat fervid and sweeping condemnation of the prevailing system of servitude, of its longthoned existence here, and of the blameworthiness of himself and others in regard to it it must now be matter for general congratulation that the abuses of this system are being strenuously put down. For giving a healthy stimulus to this desirable crusade Sir John Smale deserves much credit, and, notwithstanding the warmth of criticism which appears to have encircled the subject, the purity of Sir John's motives stands out with marked advantage to himself and the higher civilisation he represents. "These four sentences" one of seven years', and three of five years' penal sers vitude . remarks his Lordship, "may be thought by some to be severe." The Chief Justice, however, gives good reasons for their severity, viz, the increase of the offences of kidnapoing children and the firgent necessity for destroying this phase of crime in the Colony. One ground, and only one, can be advanced for a reconsideration of these terms of punishment, and that is the remissues Has Honor the Chief Justice has again of the authorities in making known the Danube, at 5 p.m., on Friday, the enunciated his views from the Bench on state of the law to the poorer classes. the question of the so-called Domestic We have repeatedly drawn attention to Slavery of this Colony. A CORRESPONDENT points out the great defect in the City Hall Library—the lack of modern standard works. "An Observer" is a stranger, and the peculiar constituent elements of our Public Labrary are of course nuknown to him. The City Hall Library Southampton, March 3.—Rev. J. F. It consists of two or three libraries, each one of which was good of its kind forty or twenty years ago; but it makes no pretensions to be a complete library, Our correspondent has, however, pointed out to H. E. the Covernor a mode of extending and making permanent his fame, and of advancing the best in creats of this "Anglo-Chinesa" Colony-in the completion of the City Hall Library. It can hardly be expected that the community can sink much more money in it; but if the Government, bursting, as it is, with a noble desire to advance higher education and enlightenment were to do what "Observer" suggests, we should begin to think that the present general estimation of the powers below the mark.

This is what the Chief Justice would call "doing the 'cute thing ":-

THE Shanghai Shun Pao has the following reference to the case of two Military Officers sent home from the Ohinese Legation at London and said to have been apprehended when the Gwalior arrived at Shanghai :--

As soon as the s. a. Gualior arrived at Woosung, a foreign policeman went on board and showed the warrant of arrest signed by British Consulate to the second sent by the tactal, also went on board, the second officer replied, "Khoi, and Lu, came on board themselves, and we received no instruction to look after them, so they went on shore at Hongkong, and lodged in Ming-lee Hotel (native), and left only a trunk." Then the policemen looked into the list of the Chinese passengers 58 ltr all. but the names of these two office s were not enrolled there, therefore they only took the trunk left by them and came back.

The last Act is devoted to the unravel ling of the mystery attached to Germaine This is done by patching together the hints dropped in his rayings, by old Gaspard -who confirms them, on his return to sanity, and owns that Germaine is not his niece but Mdlle. de Lucensy. In the same moment, that young lady learns that she is free to give her hand where she loves, for that to Henri de Corneville, and not Grenicheux, she owed her life. Across the serious interest of the dénouement comes the lighter texture of Serpolette's fortunes. No sooner does she assume the silks and sating of rank, than she is undeceived as to her real position, and has again to look forward to sabots and cotton. > We are, says a Calcutta paper of the 10th on the eye of important changes in the personnel of the various Governments. Sir Richard Temple is to give place to Sir James Fergusson: Sir Andrew Clarke has left us, and Major General Fraser takes his nest'in the Council. Sir John Strachey b soon to go home, and various names are put forth as of those likely to succeed him. A change in the Command-in-Chief is said to be imminent; and lastly we may look for a successor to his Excellency Vicercy, any time during the next few months. Whether all these changes will result' beneficially remains to be seen: while it must be confessed that less serious dialocation would take place in the Public Service were these inevitable changes so arranged that so many of them would not occur simultaneously. As we write, an important telegram reaches us intimating the dissolution of Parliament, which is to take place at Easter. THE CHINA REVIEW.

THE widely-expressed regret at the dis-continuance of Notes & Queries on China and Japan, has induced the publishers of this journal to issue a publication similar in object and style, but slightly modified in certain details. CUMULATION, 25th .....Tls. 856,370

Queries on the Far East, is issued at intervals of two months, each number containing about 60 octavo pages, occasionally illustrated with lithographs, photographs, woodcuts, &c., should the papers published demand, and the circulation justify, such extra matter. The subscription is fixed at $6.50 postage paid, per annum, payable by non-residents in Hongkong half-yearly in advance.

The publication includes papers original and selected upon the Arts and Sciences, Ethnology, Folklore, Geography, History, Literature, Mythology, Manners and Customs, Natural History, Religion, &c., &c., of China, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, the Eastern Archipelego and the "Far East" generally. A more detailed list of subjects upon which contributions are especially POLICIES granted on Marine Risks to all-invited is incorporated with each number.
